Chris Redler of Stafford impressed judges with his written statement for a national competition to win a dream job

Life in the fast lane for Chris

ANX Factor-style search to find the next Jeremy Clarkson has put a young man in the driving seat.

Chris Redler from Stafford has recently shifted up a gear – and is now a real contender for a great prize in a national competition.

The grand prize up for grabs is a paid-for, three month internship with Auto Express magazine. Along the way, competition winners have the chance to win Shell fuel vouchers, tickets to motorsport events, subscriptions to motoring magazines and Ferrari merchandise.

Impressed

Ten finalists will get to go on an exclusive behind the scenes tour at the Shell Research and Development Technology Centre in Cheshire and the final three will visit Maranello, the home of Ferrari in Italy.

Chris impressed the judges with his entry and his written statement, which has been used to help encourage others to enter, was displayed at MPH in London last month.

He may also get the chance to see his entry around Shell marketing materials in the future.
